Website & E-mail Terms & Conditions

1. General

Access to this site and the use of information contained on it is governed by the terms and conditions set out below. These terms and conditions are important and are for the protection of both ourselves and you.

Please take the time to read the terms and conditions carefully as by proceeding further into the site, you will be deemed to have accepted them.

2. Governing Law

This site is established in the United Kingdom in accordance with the laws of England and will be governed by the laws of that country. When you use the site, you accept that your use of the site and any information on the site, will also be governed by the laws of England and if any dispute arises from your use of the site or any of the information on it, you agree to allow such dispute to be heard in the English courts.

The distribution of information on the site may be restricted by local law or regulation in certain jurisdictions. This site is aimed only at persons in the United Kingdom. If you are in any doubt as to whether you can lawfully use this site, please do not proceed further.

This site is issued in the United Kingdom by Investment Funds Direct Limited which is regulated by the Financial Services Authority. The FSA may not regulate all products and services on this site.

3. Copyright

You may not copy, reproduce, duplicate modify, adopt, lend, sell or otherwise transfer, in whole or in part, any of the information or data on the site except for the purpose of accessing the service and producing print outs for your own personal use.

4. Non-advisory service

We do not provide advice. You should not treat any information or comment or the result of using any tools on the website as a recommendation of a particular investment, or as an indication that it is suitable for your particular circumstances. If you need individual advice or are uncertain about the suitability of any product for you then you should contact an Independent Financial Adviser.

5. Accuracy of Information

Fundsdirect uses all reasonable skill and care in compiling the information. Although we attempt to ensure that all of the information on this site is accurate at the time of inclusion, we cannot guarantee this is the case and it should not be relied upon as such. Errors or omissions in the information may occur due to a number of factors inherent in any Internet access system and are not within Fundsdirect's reasonable control. The information is valid only on the date that such information is supplied by Fundsdirect via its Internet service. The relevant date for any particular information is the date printed on the page on which the information appears.

6. Factors to consider when investing

You are reminded that the past performance of an investment is not necessarily a guide to its future performance. The value of, and income from, investments may fall as well as rise and investors may not get back the amount invested. In addition, changes in rates of foreign exchange may cause the value of investments to go up or down. The stockmarkets and currencies of emerging markets can be extremely volatile; no investor should invest unless he or she is prepared to accept a high degree of risk. Tax benefits, if any, may vary as a result of individual circumstances and the levels and bases of and reliefs from taxation may change. The tax regime of PEPs and ISAs could change in the future.
